CALIFORNIA PROPOSITION 65 Compliance Statement

Proposition 65 is a California law that has been in effect since 1986 to promote clean drinking water. It requires that no person in the course of doing business knowingly and intentionally exposes an individual to a chemical known to the state of California to cause cancer or reproductive toxicity without first giving a clear and reasonable warning. An official list of these substances is published and periodically updated by OEHHA.

The list can be accessed at <https://oehha.ca.gov/proposition-65/proposition-65-list>

This law applies to people and businesses in California, including those who ship products into the state. Under Prop 65, the State maintains a long list of chemicals that are considered under the statute to be either carcinogens or reproductive toxicants. Many chemicals are on both lists. Currently, over 900 chemicals are listed. These chemicals can be naturally occurring in the Earth's soil, in the environment or manufactured, and are found in a vast array of consumer products.

If your company intends to use our industrial rubber manufactured goods in products sold or delivered in California, as for most other rubber products, they will need to be properly labelled. Your company is solely responsible for determining whether your finished consumer products may be accurately labeled in compliance with Prop 65.

More details on Proposition 65 labelling can be accessed at:

The following warning statements are required by California law and apply to all the industrial rubber products available from us because the product may result in an exposure to one or more listed chemical.
